

Problem C10.1 Assuming chemical equilibrium, derive the expression for the ratio of the number densities of He^+ and neutral helium He . At which temperature is this ratio equal to 1?

Problem C10.2 Explain why the recombination temperature is significantly smaller than the corresponding binding energies.

Problem H10.1 What is the highest temperature at which the Standard Model of particle physics can remain in equilibrium?